Friends,

As I mentioned in my earlier email update Wednesday, the decision on reopening the church is a fluid process as we watch closely hospitalization metrics in our community. With this in mind, our Administrative Team has pushed the return to worship to July 12 at the earliest. They also decided that we will not be opening our facilities to small groups before we open them for large worship experiences. We remain committed to the safety of our community. We also remain committed to the sharing of worship on line both now and after our return to the building.

Thank you for your prayers and continued patience.
